Dear Bell County Partners,

Since April 2009, Bell County Public Health District has been responding to an outbreak of the novel H1N1 virus. Over the last several months, the Health District has been working with stakeholders to identify response activities that worked well and to identify opportunities to improve future planning and response activities.

We hope this packet of educational material will help facilitate the dissemination of accurate information to the general public. Please feel free to copy and share these materials freely.

Please remember that the H1N1 Influenza outbreak continues to be a fluid situation and information changes daily. Check the websites listed below for the most up to date information and translations as they become available.
