Fort Hood WIC Clinic Relocation

Temple, Texas – The Bell County Public Health District Women, Infants and Children (WIC) Fort Hood clinic will move into their new location late November.

Bell County Public Health District WIC Program has been temporarily serving their Fort Hood clients from their downtown Killeen clinic location the last four months while their new location was being renovated. The Fort Hood clinic was previously located on post at Building 289, Battalion Avenue and was temporarily moved to 111 Santa Fe Plaza in downtown Killeen in July. The Fort Hood WIC clinic has been sharing space with the Killeen WIC clinic until construction was complete on its new location at the old Darnall hospital. The new location address will be Building 36065 Santa Fe Avenue on Fort Hood military post.

The new Fort Hood WIC clinic location is expected to be ready sometime in November. “Staff are excited about the new location”, says Nikki Morrow, WIC Program Director. The clinic is a much larger space than their previous location with much more room to serve clients. WIC will also be co-located with several other programs for military families. “WIC refers clients to many of these programs and they refer to us. It will be nice to work side by side to help serve those who serve our country” says Morrow. WIC parents can still expect to receive the same great services and options at the new location.
